PRESS RELEASE

Commissioner Hilary King Appointed to Serve on the Florida League of Cities Education and Training Advisory Committee

The Florida League of Cities, the united voice for Florida's municipal governments, announced that City of Indian Rocks Beach Commissioner Hilary King has been appointed to serve on the League's Education and Training Advisory Committee.

The appointment was made on behalf of the Florida League of Cities Officers and Board of Directors by League President Mark Franks. Commissioner King's one-year term begins with an overview meeting at the League's Legislative Conference on December 2, 2026. The committee is chaired by Dr. Adam W. Greenway, Council Member for the City of Frostproof.

The Education and Training Advisory Committee helps guide the League's education and training programs, which are offered to Florida's city officials through FLC University. These programs include the Institute for Elected Municipal Officials (IEMO), the state-required ethics training for elected officials, online orientation for newly elected officials, webinars, and the League's certificate program. As a committee member, Commissioner King will help identify timely and relevant educational topics, recommend delivery formats that serve a range of learning preferences, and explore new and innovative approaches to continued learning for municipal officials across the state.

Following the December meeting, the committee will meet in the spring of 2027 via Zoom and again at the League's Annual Conference in Orlando, August 19–21, 2027.

Commissioner King has served as a Commissioner of the City of Indian Rocks Beach since March 2025.
